SURVEYOR-GENERAL'S REPORT.

Something About Public Lands, Mining, Grazing, Sheep Husbandry, and Other Nevada Matters.

Annexed is the report of the U. S. Surveyor General of Nevada for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1885:

U. S. SURVEYOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,
RENO, Nevada, July 23, 1885.
Hon. Wm. A. J. Sparks, Commissioner
General Land Office, Washington, D. C.;

Sir:—In accordance with your instructions of April 9th, 1885, I have the honor to submit herewith, in duplicate, my annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1885. I also submit, in duplicate, tabular statements, as follows:

A.—Statement of account of appropriation for compensation of Surveyor General and employes.

B.—Statement of account of special deposits for pay of clerks, etc., of office.

C.—Statement of account of appropriation for contingent expenses.

D.—Statement of account of appropriation for survey of Public Lands.

E.—Statement of balance of special deposits for surveys.

F.—Statement of contracts payable out of the appropriation.

G.—Statement of special deposit by Central Pacific Railroad Co.

The returns for the year include seventy townships, giving an area of 1,249,768.07 acres of agricultural and grazing land, and 27,239.53 acres of mineral land, a total of 1,277,007.60 acres.

The number of miles run and marked in the field was 25 miles, 67 chains and 39 links of Reservation lines; 88 miles, 31 chains and 39 links of Standard lines; 987 miles, 6 chains and 90 links of township lines; 3,271 miles, 76 chains and 87 links of section lines; 33 miles, 6 chains and 76 links of connecting lines; making a total of 4,406 miles, 29 chains and 31 links.

There were 35 applications for survey of mineral claims embracing an area of 419.57 acres, and deposits for the same, $1,050.

The number of plats made was 244 of township and exterior, and 121 mineral plats, all of which, with transcript of field notes have been forwarded to Washington, and the triplicate plats filed in the local land offices at Carson and Eureka.

At the last session of the Legislature a memorial and resolution was unanimously adopted asking the General Government to cede to the State of Nevada all unsold lands within the State. The United States has been generous to Nevada in grants of public lands, having at divers and sundry times, granted it 2,732,875.70 acres, of which 953,346.77 acres have been selected and approved to the State up to January 1, 1885. These grants were comprised in the donations of the Sixteenth and Thirty-sixth Sections, Indemnity, (Lien Land), Agricultural College, University, Public Buildings, State Prison and the Two-Million Acre grant. By reason of this last-named grant the State virtually controls the sale of the public lands of the State, and the Government, in its generosity, pays for the surveys and expenses of maintaining a U. S. Surveyor General's office and two local land offices, all of which could be dispensed with and $40,000 per annum saved to the United States, by a compliance with the desire of the people of Nevada, as expressed through their Legislature. Under the two-million acre grant the State selects when and where it pleases, disposes of it in 40 or 640-acre tracts at $1 25 per acre, the purchaser paying one-fifth at the time of application, and being allowed twenty-five years to pay the $1 balance, at 6 per cent. per annum interest. Even within the limits of the Central Pacific Railroad grant, where the Government asks double minimum or $2 50 per acre, the State takes advantage of its privileges and sells the same goods for one-half the money. The State laws are so liberal that it is only in exceptional cases that a person will give the Government the preference, and many waive homestead rights to deal directly with the State. The State sold 85,000 acres in 1884, and its sales this year will exceed 100,000 acres. Within another year nearly every acre of land reached by natural water will be disposed of, and the State will not then have exhausted more than one quarter of its grant. It will then have to reduce the price to 75 or 50 cents per acre, and at that rate it will be many years before it will sell the remaining 1,500,000 acres, and when that is gone the probabilities are the Government will grant it more, and so it will go on. The cession asked for, if granted, would be of advantage to both parties in interest. The Government would be enabled to cut off its allotment for public surveys and its appropriations for land offices, and the State can well afford to assume these expenses, in order to obtain absolute control of all land within its borders, thereby enabling it to dispose of it in such quantities and upon such terms as it chose, hastening its sale to induce settlement and create property, and otherwise perfecting such plans as would enable it to improve the natural waterways, build reservoirs, sink artesian wells, with the hope of ultimately reclaiming tracts now worthless, and accommodating those who desire to engage in agricultural or stock-raising pursuits.

MINING.

Nevada is no worse off than her neighbors. The bullion yield of the State shows an improvement over last year, and will be close to ten millions of dollars. She has demonstrated, too, that rich ore exists more than three thousand feet below the surface of the earth, and the Hale & Norcross mine is entitled to the credit of making the first bullion shipment from such a great depth. The daily ore product of the Comstock mines is 600 tons, keeping over 200 stamps on the Carson river constantly employed in crushing it. The ore is low grade but returns a fair profit above expenses of mining and milling. By reason of this, extensive prospecting operations are being carried on in nearly every prominent mine on the lode, and there is every probability that valuable discoveries will be made in the near future. Tuscarora is still contributing to the wealth of the country. Eureka, Austin and Candelaria have done fairly well during the past year, and will do better in the future. But there are hundreds of small mines scattered throughout the State which have caused the bullion yield to be greater than last year's product, and from these have come the mineral to more than make up the deficit of the hitherto big districts. Prospecting is being as keenly followed as ever, and there would be an immense "boom" in that line, if the prospector could be placed on the same footing as the farmer. The greatest need of Nevada to-day is reduction works. What Colorado has done can be discounted in Nevada, but private capital seemingly has no many attractions elsewhere that it is loth to take hold of any enterprise in the State. An enlightened public sentiment will soon demand that the State itself shall maintain reduction works in connection with its State University. This would prove a profitable investment to all concerned, and make work for hundreds, homes for thousands, and business for all. Mining is but in its infancy here, and under proper systems, this State will some day resume her former position as the richest mineral State in the Union.

GRAZING.

Wonderful progress has been made in the stock-raising business, and the rapid strides with which it has made its mark, has directed attention to the unsurpassed facilities possessed by Nevada for the prosecution of this great and growing industry. The counties of Elko, Humboldt and Washoe are the favored grazing sections, but there are almost equal attractions in Churchill, Lander, Eureka, Esmeralda, Nye, White Pine and Lincoln counties. Nevada beef is juicy, firm and tender, and can not be improved upon in any other section of the United States. It is in demand in every market, and always commands the highest price. California butchers are hoping to substitute the inferior beef from the Southern Territories and Mexico, but only the poorer classes will take it, and that because they think they are too poor to afford a better quality. Nevada shipped 40,000 head to California last year, but is now turning her attention Eastward, and if she can be given as favorable terms as other "favored nations," will compete with them for the trade of Chicago and the East. The geographical situation of the State is excellent for stock-raising purposes, enabling it to escape the heavy snows and blizzards north and the intense heat of the south. Cattle have magnificent Summer range, and the desert country affords them safe shelter and feed in the Winter, for the white sage, rabbit sage, hop sage, rabbit brush, barr clover, rye grass, salt grass, and four or five different varieties of bunch grass, together with the greasewood, all of which are indigenous to the plains and deserts of Nevada, and which grow from one to six feet, furnish feed upon which cattle can live throughout even a hard Winter. The climate is so even and the grasses so nutritious that Nevada cattle attain greater growth and have more fat put upon them than the stall-fed cattle of the Western States. The amount of capital invested in this industry is estimated at $15,000,000. The State land sales are mostly for grazing purposes, and it is believed that the day is not far distant when a range will be worth dollar for dollar the number of cattle it can accommodate.

SHEEP HUSBANDRY.

The sheep business is in a prosperous condition and there are 500,000 sheep on the ranges. Mutton sheep are valued at $2 per head, and lambs at $1 50. The average annual increase is 80 per cent. The wool clip averages 6 pounds, and good Nevada wool brings 16 cents per pound. There are no dry seasons here for sheep, and each year will witness a marked increase in this important, permanent and profitable industry.

CONCLUSION.

Nevada is not by any means a "played out mining camp," as some of the great New York dailies endeavor to make it appear. She is rich in all the precious minerals, has cattle upon a thousand hills, and sheep with fleece as white as snow. The climate is perfectly lovely, and cannot be excelled, and as the seasons come and go they are regretted and welcomed. Ten thousand children bless the public schools, and good society is enjoyed by all adults. The cost of maintaining a State Government, including all expenditures for public charities and public schools, does not exceed $250,000 per annum, and if the actual property of the State was assessed at anywhere near its cash value the rate of State taxation would not be twenty cents on each $100. The people of Nevada are hardy and brave. They ask no sympathy from their neighbors. They will carve their own way to prosperity and aid and assist others as they pursue their journey.

Very Respectfully,

Your Obedt Servant,

C. C. POWNING,

U. S. Surveyor General of Nevada.

President Cleveland was Friday night advised by telegram from Adjutant General Drum, now at Mt. Gregor, that he delivered the President's letter to Mrs. Grant, and she and the children expressed a desire to have General Grant buried with national honors. Their wishes will be respected and the ceremonies will take place as already indicated. President Cleveland and the members of the Cabinet will attend the funeral in New York on Saturday, August 8th.

Ex-President Hayes says the Grand Army of the Republic, as the largest soldier organization in the country, should take the lead in building a national monument in honor of General Grant in New York. He will submit a proposition to the Ohio Department at its meeting in Springfield early in August.

Most extraordinary assays have been made by the Smithsonian Institute at Washington of a score or more specimens of silver ore recently discovered in Polk county, Tennessee. The vein extends through thousands of acres and the report has created great excitement.

The Baldwin Theater Company

The Baldwin Theater Company are now concluding a successful engagement at Salt Lake and will appear at the theater Tuesday evening, in the "Shadows of a Great City," which had a run of six weeks at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco. It is said to be far superior in plot to many of the modern melodramas, and condensed, it turns on a gentlemanly villain desirous of obtaining another fortune by any means, marriage or murder. There are introduced the willing tools of the most criminal class, also a noble hero and heroine, who foil the schemers after imprisonment and various other trials. The play is highly sensational and by the present company is admirably managed. The scenery is first-class and such stars as Lewis Morrison, George Osbourne and J. R. Stockwell will not fail to give the lovers of drama an entertainment worthy their patronage.

STATEMENT OF THE C. P. FOR 1884.

Comparison of the Revenue and Expenses With Those of 1883

The annual report of the directors of the Central Pacific Railroad Company to the stockholders for 1884 was issued in pamphlet form a short time ago. The funded debt of the company, less sinking funds, was $45,093,455 on December 31st. The total capital stock and indebtedness is put down at $163,860,285. The total assets, including railroad and telegraph lines, steamers, farming land unsold, stocks and bonds, etc., are stated at $194,583,071. The report says: "Large amounts of expenditures for new construction and equipment during the several years past have caused the accumulation of a considerable floating indebtedness, as the expenditures have not been provided for by the issue of stock or bonds." In order to consolidate this floating debt into a single item, the Board of Directors authorized the issue of $10,000,000 of convertible bonds, dated January 1, 1885, payable in thirty years, with 6 per cent. interest. During January $5,000,000 of the floating debt was converted into these new bonds at par, leaving a floating debt balance of $7,873,945. A portion of this balance, it is stated, will be similarly converted during the current year. The company claims to have "quick assets" amounting to $5,443,681 to offset the $7,873,945 of floating debt.

The following statement shows the income and expenditures of the Central Pacific for 1884, as compared with the figures of the previous year:

	1884.	1883
Gross earnings from roads	$22,166,100 28	$24,761,421 20
Net earnings from roads	14,721 69	1,336 55
Dividends on investment	1,200 00	6,000 00
Interest earned on sinking funds	370,000 00	335,125 00
Land sales used to redeem land bonds	472,000 00	574,000 00
Refunded by U. S. R. R. for loss in operating Colorado Division in 1883	244,211 83
Total	$23,251,242 70	$25,660,782 75
Operating expenses and rental	$15,693,296 99	$15,570,660 61
General and legal expenses, etc.	979,101 17	636,043 87
Taxes paid during year	651,181 58	112,727 37
Interest	3,878,187 21	1,706,911 39
Total	$21,202,666 95	$20,190,363 12

The decrease of more than $2,200,000 in the gross earnings from traffic is explained by the directors as having been caused by "the unprecedented and continued storms during the first half of the year 1884," which washed out the road in several places and interrupted traffic. The balance sheet for the year shows a deficit of $114,280, which, added to $1,778,265 of unearned dividends paid, makes total deficit of $1,892,545. The Central Pacific Directors claim that there is due the company from the Government $630,339, which is "held without sanction of law," by the United States Treasury Department. The Directors remark: "This treatment by the Government is in striking contrast to the untiring efforts of the company to perform fully every duty to the United States."

Ready and Willing to Die.

MOUNT MCGROON, July 24.—While sitting on the hotel veranda this afternoon Dr. Douglas chatted at length with a correspondent about General Grant, and the long trial and suffering just ended. "Do you remember," said Dr. Douglas, "that during the last week I said to you there was a subsidence of the swelling in the overlying tissue on the right side of the neck, and that I said on the day I spoke about it that I had been able to examine the General's throat much deeper and with greater ease than in a long time? Do you remember that?"

His hearer recollected it clearly, and said so.

"Well then," said Dr. Douglas, "I am going to tell you of an experience I had with General Grant on the afternoon of Thursday, July 16, at the time I had observed the indication about the throat which I spoke of. During the afternoon of that day the General wrote this, and Dr. Douglas drew several slips written by the General, and read what the sick man had written as follows: "I feel sorry at the prospect of living through the Summer and Fall in the condition I am in. I do not think

I can, but I may, except I do not gather strength. I feel quite as well from day to day as I have done heretofore, but I am losing strength. I feel it more in my inability to move around than in any other way, or rather, in lack of desire to try and move around."

"When I had read that" added Dr. Douglas, "I turned to the General and tried to cheer him by telling him of the apparent improved condition of his throat and neck, to which, in reply, the General again wrote

"After all that, however, the disease is still there, and must be fatal in the end. My life is precious, of course, to my family, and would be to me if I could recover entirely. There was never one more willing to go than I. I know most people have first one and then another little thing to fix up, and never get quite through. This was partially my case. I first wanted so many days to finish my book so the authorship would be clearly mine, and it was graciously granted to me, after being apparently much lower than since, and with a capacity to do more work than I ever did in the same time. My work has been done so hastily that much of it has been left out, and I did it all over from the crossing of the James river in 1864 to Appomattox in 1865. Since then I have added as much as fifty pages to the book I should think. There is nothing more to do, and therefore I am not likely to be more ready to go than at this moment."

Jake Becker likes to have his numerous friends and thirsty people generally call and try his cool beverages and choice lunch these hot days, just as he did when the weather was freezing and they wanted something hot.
